- Details about your use of our website such as your Internet Protocol (IP) address (a number which identifies your device)

Where do we collect information from?

- Price comparison websites if you've received a quote for a policy with us. This notice will apply in addition to any detail given to you by the price comparison website about the use of your personal information.
- Third party databases made available to the insurance industry

If you provide us with information about another person, you confirm that they have agreed for you to act for them, to consent to the processing of their personal information and that you have informed them of our identity and the purposes for which their personal information will be processed.

Why do we collect this information and how will we use it?

So that we can give you insurance quotations, arrange and manage your insurance policy, and carry out fraud and credit checks, the legal ground for processing your personal information is that it is required for the performance of your insurance policy.

We may collect and use your personal information:

- a) To provide you services relating to an insurance quotation and/or insurance policy such as:
 - Assessing your insurance application and arranging your motor policy
 - Managing your motor policy including issuing policy documents

The collection and use of information such as your name, address, what/who you would like to insure and any claims or motoring conviction details is necessary to provide you with an insurance quotation. Without this information we will be unable to assess your application. This assessment involves an automated decision to determine whether we can provide a quotation from our panel of insurers. These decisions involve the use of pricing and acceptability tools and are dependent on the information that you provide us. If you object to an automated decision then we'll be unable to provide you with an insurance quotation or renewal.

- b) Where our reasons are justifiable including:
 - Keeping records about you and our correspondence with you so we can manage our relationship with you as well as satisfy any record-keeping legal and regulatory obligations we may have
 - Fraud prevention and detection – we may at any time pass your personal information to internal and external data validation and fraud prevention systems. This may include a claims verification system. Your details may also be checked against records held by external fraud prevention agencies. If you give us false or inaccurate information or we suspect or detect fraud, we will record this and share it with other insurers and fraud prevention agencies. Law enforcement agencies may access and use this information to help prevent and detect crime. We and other organisations may also use this information to prevent fraud and money laundering for example when:
 - Checking details on applications for credit or credit related facilities
 - Managing credit and other credit related facilities
 - Recovering debt
 - Checking details on proposals and claims for all types of insurance
 - Checking details of job applicants and employees

We and other organisations may offer access to this information to agencies in other countries to help prevent global fraud.

- Sharing your personal information with the Motor Insurance Database (MID) managed by the Motor Insurers' Bureau which may be used to establish whether a driver is insured to drive a vehicle and/or for preventing or detecting crime. If you're involved in an accident in the UK or abroad the MID may be searched to obtain relevant policy information.
- Carrying out processes such as statistical analysis to help improve the products and services we offer.
- Recording and monitoring calls for training purposes to improve the quality of our service and to help us deal with queries or complaints from you.

The legal ground we use to process personal data under (b) above is that it is required to fulfil our legitimate interests.
